Next Week: Election of the Archbishop of Wales (6-8 Dec)

On Monday, 6th December, the Electoral College will meet inside Holy Trinity Church in Llandrindod Wells to choose the 14th Archbishop of Wales.

This election follows the retirement of the Bishop of Swansea and Brecon, John Davies, who held the office of Archbishop of Wales for four years. His successor will be chosen from among the serving Welsh diocesan bishops – the Bishop of Bangor, Andy John, the Bishop of St Asaph, Gregory Cameron, the Bishop of St Davids, Joanna Penberthy, the Bishop of Llandaff, June Osborne, the Bishop of Monmouth, Cherry Vann, and the newly appointed Bishop of Swansea and Brecon, John Lomas. The College may take up to three days to elect an Archbishop. If it fails to do so within this time, the decision passes to the Bench of Bishops.

You can find out more about the Welsh Diocesan Bishop's at: <https://www.churchinwales.org.uk/en/about-us/bishops/>

Please hold the Electoral College and all our bishops in your prayers next week; as they work to elect our new Archbishop.

News

Communion in Both Kinds

As Christmas approaches, the bishops are very mindful that Anglican practice and teaching is that “the cup of the Lord is not to be denied to lay people” (Article XXX). We therefore regularly review the current prohibition on sharing the common cup, which has been imposed for severely urgent health reasons only, and at first, at the direction of the Welsh Government. We recently gave permission for communion in both kinds by intinction, where the administration was by the priest or minister of communion alone, but we are aware that this is not really the best of solutions.

However, we do not feel that the current health situation allows the restoration of the common cup, and we continue to direct that the use of individual communion cups is not permitted. This is for reasons of reverent disposal after Communion as much as any other reason, but we are persuaded that the introduction of individual cups would require a change to canon law at present.

We therefore ask you to bear with us in the current discipline. We undertake to review this once again in the new year.

Christian Aid Christmas Appeal - South Sudan facing climate chaos

With COP26 turning out to be a mixed bag of results – some good, some definitely not – Christian Aid will continue to press the government on this vital issue. In particular, securing adequate support for those vulnerable countries facing the worst of the loss and damage caused by the climate emergency is a key demand.

Through its partners, Christian Aid itself continues its work in some of the world's poorest communities, standing with them as they fight the effects of climate change. One such example is highlighted in Christian Aid's Christmas Appeal this year. In South Sudan – also the focus of the Church in Wales's Centenary Appeal – communities are struggling with droughts and flash floods.

One effect of this erratic weather pattern is that drinking water can be severely affected. For a mother like Adut, pictured, this meant having to face impossible choices. Would she risk the health of her children with dirty water, or face not giving them any water at all?

Adut's life was changed when Support for Peace and Education Development Program – Christian Aid's local partner – constructed a bore hole in her village. Through using a hand pump, Adut and her neighbours now have access to reliable and clean water. It's the kind of intervention that changes lives in a radical way.

As climate change continues to cause havoc and make extreme poverty even worse, such programs are a vital contribution to helping the most vulnerable communities adapt.

For more information about Christian Aid's Christmas Appeal and how you could help more communities like Adut's, please go to <https://www.christianaid.org.uk/appeals/key-appeals/christmas-appeal>

Re-engage Community Christmas

Bringing generations together

Community Christmas provides a free online directory of local festive events and activities taking place across the UK, all of which are open to older people who would otherwise be spending Christmas alone.

Community Christmas helps to make sure that older people who might otherwise be on their own have a place to go to celebrate the festive season.

Are you an organisation, group, or individual holding an event between 18 December and 1 January? If so, you can advertise your event on our online directory and we'll make sure that older people get to hear about it.

We also welcome events that are not aimed specifically at older people, as long as they are accessible for an older person. Please visit our website reengage.org.uk/christmas for more details and to sign up.

If you know someone who is 75 or older who may be on their own on Christmas Day, you can tell them about the directory or ask them to call 0800 716 543 and we'll help match them to an event in their local area. (This phone number is for event attendees only.)

Good News Worth Sharing

St James' Devauden Fundraising

As part of the fundraising efforts for St James Devauden, members have held a calendar competition and created a recipe book.

The recipe book raised over £1,200 in sales in the first 3 months it was available, testament to the efforts of the editor, Kathy Marland. 40 families contributed their favourite recipes.

The calendar competition had over 40 entries, from people in Devauden, St Arvans, Itton and Chepstow.

Both are still available at Parkway Stores in St Arvans and Devauden Green Store.

You can also reserve a calendar by emailing devauden.photos@gmail.com

Ecclesiastical will be donating £1000 to 10 charities every weekday between the 6th and 21st of December with nominations open until midnight the day before each draw.

Training for Intercessors

The Cathedral Dean, Very Revd Ian Black, will be leading a training evening on Tuesday 1st February at 7.15pm in the Cathedral on leading intercessions in church. It is open to both those who currently exercise this ministry and anyone who would like to start leading these.

During the evening we will reflect on what it is we are doing and what we are not, look at some resources available to help and explore some pointers. There will be a small bookstall with some resources to buy. Dean Ian has published a number of books of intercessions and prayers, which are used widely.

Further details in the New Year. If there are any who would prefer a session during the day or at a weekend, please let Ian know at the Cathedral and if there is sufficient interest he will look at some dates

You may notice we are starting to add some more Welsh words and phrases to our diocesan communications!

Staff in the diocese office will soon be answering the phone with a 'Bore da' or ending an email with 'cofion cynnes' as we continue our journey to become a bilingual diocese.

Welsh language services that are held regularly across our diocese are a great way to embrace the Welsh identity of our diocese.

The Lectio for Families app from 24-7 Prayer

Lectio for Families is a free devotional app from 24-7 Prayer that helps families to read the Bible and explore faith through conversation and prayer together.

Lectio For Families is inspired by Lectio Divina: a way of meditating on the Bible that's been used by Christians for centuries. Like 24-7 Prayer's free Lectio 365 app (www.24-7prayer.com/lectio365) for individuals, daily content on Lectio for Families follows an easy-to-remember P.R.A.Y format each day: P – Pause, R- Rejoice and Reflect, A- Ask, Y- Yes to God's ways.

The Lectio for Families app is designed for families with children aged between 7-11 years old, but is likely to be suitable for those who are younger and slightly older too

The app aims to equip families to read the Bible, talk about faith and pray together in an easy way. Content on the Lectio for Families app has been written for families to do together. It includes daily Bible readings and a weekly memory verse, read by children. Each day there are questions to pause and talk about, and creative prompts to pray in new ways.

Advent Course 2021

We're pleased to announce the 2021 Diocesan Advent Course is now available. This year's course has been drafted by Archdeacon Ian Rees and Revd Becca Stevens.

'Wait, Trust, Commit' explores the themes of anticipation and hope as we examine our relationship with and commitment to Jesus.

This 3-session course includes prayers, readings, commentary, and questions to enable discussion in your groups.

We hope you will find this a valuable resource.
